As an educational institution, the University of Richmond values a learning community in which all members feel secure physically and intellectually. Behavior that harms others or threatens campus security challenged the institution’s key mission to “sustain a collaborative learning and research community that supports the personal development of its members and the creation of new knowledge.” Whether on-campus or off-campus, the University strives to provide students with the support and resources necessary during difficult times.

This handbook contains resources and contact information from crisis response centers in each of the fifty states, Puerto Rico, the U.S. Virgin Islands, and the Bahamas. You will find the name, location, web address, and phone number of each resource within this handbook. Survivors of sexual violence may find it helpful to access their local resources including crisis hotlines, support groups, and counseling. More detailed information of services provided can be found on each resources’ website.

If you are a survivor of sexual assault please keep in mind:

- Your safety is most important. Find a safe place as soon as possible.
- It was not your fault. You did not choose or cause your assault to happen. The only person responsible is the perpetrator.
- Seek support from someone you trust. You do not have to go through this alone. If you feel ready, reach out to a family member, friend, counselor, and/or victim-advocate for support and reassurance during your recovery process.
- Get medical attention as soon as possible. Taking care of your health during this time is an important part of your healing process. A medical examination will provide any necessary treatment and collect important evidence.
- Consider making a formal report. The University of Richmond strongly supports and encourages prompt reporting of sexual misconduct. Reporting helps ensure the safety of the survivor and the entire community.

Although these resources have not been officially reviewed or approved by the University of Richmond, we have done our best to locate and include quality services. If you have any feedback or suggestions that you would like considered during the next round of edits, please contact the Deputy Title IX Coordinators for Students, Tracy Cassalia at tcassali@richmond.edu.
Definitions

What is Sexual Misconduct? Sexual misconduct is a broad range of behavior that includes but is not limited to:

Non-Consensual Sexual Contact: Any sexual contact that occurs without consent constitutes non-consensual sexual contact. Sexual contact means physical contact committed with the intent to sexually molest, arouse or gratify any person, where one person intentionally touches another’s intimate parts or clothing directly covering such intimate parts or causes a person to touch their own intimate parts or clothing directly covering such intimate parts. Examples of sexual contact include, but are not limited to, the intentional touching of a person’s genitalia, groin, breast, or buttocks or the clothing covering any of those areas, or using force to cause the person to touch their own genitalia, groin, breast, or buttocks. Non-consensual sexual contact is sexual misconduct prohibited by the University.

Non-Consensual Sexual Intercourse: The act of sexual intercourse that occurs without consent constitutes non-consensual sexual intercourse. Sexual intercourse is defined by penetration (anal, oral, or vaginal), however slight, by a penis, tongue, finger, or inanimate object. Non-consensual sexual intercourse is sexual misconduct prohibited by the University.

Sexual Exploitation: Taking sexual advantage of another person without effective consent constitutes sexual exploitation. Sexual exploitation is distinct from non-consensual sexual contact or intercourse, which constitute separate violations of this Policy. Examples of sexual exploitation include but are not limited to causing the incapacitation of another person for a sexual purpose; causing the prostitution of another person; electronically recording, photographing, or transmitting intimate or sexual utterances, sounds, or images of another person, including images of someone undressed or partially undressed; allowing third parties to observe sexual acts; engaging in voyeurism; distributing intimate or sexual information about another person; and knowingly transmitting a sexually transmitted infection to another person. Sexual exploitation is sexual misconduct prohibited by the University.

Stalking: Stalking is engaging in a course of unwanted conduct toward a specific person (including surveillance, repeated phone calls, emails, text messages, social media messages or in-person contact) that would cause a reasonable person to fear for their own safety or the safety of others or to suffer substantial emotional distress. A course of conduct means two or more acts, including, but not limited to, acts in which the person directly, indirectly, or through third parties, by any action, method, device, or means, follows, monitors, observes, surveils, threatens, or communicates to or about, another person, or interferes with another person’s property. Substantial emotional distress means significant mental suffering or anguish that may, but does not necessarily, require medical or other professional treatment or counseling. Any act that constitutes stalking under Virginia law is also prohibited under this policy. Stalking is sexual misconduct prohibited by the University.

Sexual Harassment: Sexual harassment is unwanted or offensive conduct or communication of a sexual nature directed toward another in which:

- Submission to or rejection of such conduct is made a term or condition of an individual's employment or academic success or is used as the basis for employment or academic decisions; or
- The conduct or communication was severe and/or persistent and, as a result, created a hostile environment.

Sexual harassment is sexual misconduct prohibited by the University.

Dating/Relationship Violence: Dating or relationship violence is any type of violence, including sexual or physical assault or abuse, or the threat of such assault or abuse, between adults who are in a social relationship of a romantic or intimate nature. The existence of such a relationship will be determined based on the reporting party’s statement and with consideration of the length of the relationship, the type of relationship, and the frequency of interaction between the persons involved in the relationship. Dating/relationship violence is sexual misconduct prohibited by the University.

Domestic Violence: Domestic violence is an act of violence committed: (a) by a current or former spouse or intimate partner of the victim; (b) by a person with whom the victim shares a child in common; (c) by a person who is cohabitating, or has cohabitated with the victim as a spouse or intimate partner; (d) by a person similarly situated to a spouse of the victim under Virginia law; or (e) by any other person against an adult or youth victim who is protected from that person’s acts under Virginia law. Domestic violence is sexual misconduct prohibited by the University.

Sexual Violence: Sexual violence is any physical sexual act or acts perpetrated against a person’s will or against a person incapable of giving consent. Examples of sexual violence include non-consensual sexual contact and non-consensual sexual intercourse. Depending upon the circumstances, sexual violence may also include dating/relationship violence or domestic violence. Sexual violence is sexual misconduct prohibited by the University.

What is Consent? Clear and unambiguous agreement to engage in sexual activity as evidenced by words or actions that demonstrate a knowing and voluntary willingness to engage in mutually agreed upon sexual activity.

- Consent cannot be gained by force, duress, intimidation, coercion, ignoring objections, or taking advantage of another’s incapacitation.
- Consent may not be inferred from silence or any other lack of active resistance.
- Consent may not be inferred from the way a person is dressed.
- Consent may not be assumed from the fact of spending money on another person (e.g., buying a meal on a date).
- Prior consent does not imply consent to future sexual acts.
- Consent to one type of sexual act does not automatically imply consent to any other type of sexual act.
- Consent may be withdrawn at any time through clear words or actions.

- Consent may not be given by the following persons:

- Individuals who are mentally incapacitated at the time of the sexual contact in a manner that prevents them from understanding the nature or consequences of the sexual act involved, including incapacitation as a result of alcohol or drug use;
- Individuals who are asleep, unconscious or otherwise physically helpless; and
- Minors.
